Sore feet do pay off

Those blisters earned by Glades area marchers in the Sixth Annual March of Dimes Glades Super Walk last year paid dividends last week when checks were presented to Glades General and Everglades Memorial Hospitals in Belle Glade and Paokhee.

Palm Beach County March of Dimes Director Judi Walker and Roy Rauch, this year's Super Walk coordinator, presented a $2,145 check to Glades General ADAdministrator Pat Lennon and a $4,215 check to Everglades Memorial Administrator Frank Steinberger Friday morning.

The check presented to Glades General will be used, according to Director of Nursing Zola Yates, to buy a berthing bed for the hospital. She said the bed looks like a typical hospital bed but breaks into the position used for childbearing.

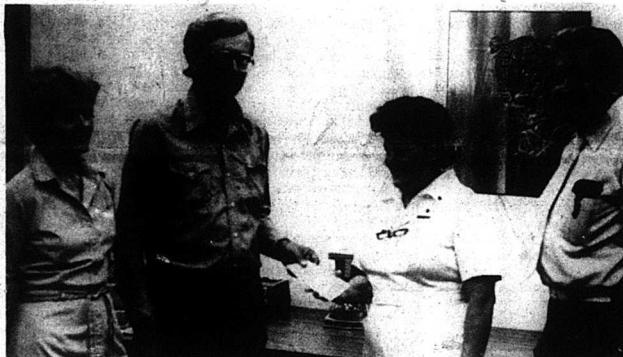

Ms. Yates said the patient instead of being transferred from a hospital bed in the labor room to a stretcher to be taken to the delivery room, transferred there to a table and then repeating the process to go to a hospital room, stays on the same bed throughout the operation.

In Paokhee, the March of Dimes contribution will be used to buy an infant intensive care warmer. The hospital is also using its own funds to purchase an infant ECG monitor.

"Last year," Steinberger said, "we had 800 babies born here and we only had ten bassinets."

Rausch said he was particularly pleased to see the presentations because they were indications the Glades area walkers bring something to this area with their efforts.

Ms. Walker said the presentations would have been made earlier but former Director Bo Stein had left May and the March of Dimes county office had been without a director until she was hired in September and she had been so swamped since then she hadn't had time.

FBI changes explained

BELLE GLADE—Federal Bureau of Investigation Senior Resident Agent Gene McKinney told Belle Glade Rotarians Tuesday he used to tell people in Palm Beach County that organized crime was moving in but that is no longer true.

"There's no doubt in my mind that organized crime is in Palm Beach County," McKinney said. "We have as much or more organized crime here and in Broward and Dade Counties as there is in Chicago or New York. "If they sold stock," he said, "this would be a good place to invest your money because they only go where the money is."

McKinney said he would define "organized crime" as several people conspiring to break the law, with an element of fear, citing as examples drugs, smuggling, gambling and prostitution.

And organized crime topped the list of three forms of action the FBI is concentrating on now, McKinney said. He noted there have been a number of changes since the Hoover days and when Clarence Kelly took over the Bureau, he reassessed the FBI's mission.

The three activities now demanding top priority from the Bureau, McKinney said are organized crime, white collar crime and foreign counterintelligence.

While agents will still help local police departments in bank robberies, McKinney said, there is no longer the automatic assumption there was at one time because when the priorities were reassessed, it was found bank fraud, a form of white collar crime, was creating a far larger loss than bank robberies.

With the reassessment, McKinney said, the Bureau has changed its methods of investigation, spending two or three years to lay the groundwork for a case such as Abcam.

"We've changed the whole criterion of what we investigate," he said. "The average computer crime involves the loss of half a million dollars. White collar crimes today are much more complicated but they're much more rewarding to the agents involved."

In answer to a question, McKinney said there had been some abuses in the past by the FBI, "but we've corrected them. One problem in the past is that the law never said what or how the FBI could operate."

He said the law originally said only that the Bureau would be charged with the investigation of cases for the U.S. Justice Department, without laying guidelines. He said a charter is now being drawn up for the FBI which should correct that situation.

He also said he believed that, contrary to popular belief, he doesn't believe the level of the Bureau's work ever dropped, but following the death of J. Edgar Hoover, there were a number of people who were just getting in their knicks."

McKinney said the Congressional knobs over the past few years haven't restricted the Bureau except in one area. He said the Freedom of Information Act cost

CLOWNS WERE WINNERS this week for Jaimie Stoker, above, and Michael Crist, below. The two youths were among the winners in the Herald-Observer Color the Clown Contest last week and received tickets to the Great Ron Morris Circus, brought to the area Monday by the Belle Glade Lions Club. The Herald-Observer gave away ten tickets to the circus and Lisa Haulcomm and Andy Ballard had their faces painted as clowns and took part in the 8:15 p.m. show.

BACKTALK

BACKTALK'S question this week is:

Would you favor a law controlling where people may and may not smoke in public places?

Ron Brown, Belle Glade—Yes, because many of the people around here can't stand smoke. A lot of people smoke but the air isn't clean as it is right now, without people smoking. You might be in a public place and somebody else smoking nearby might blow smoke in your face.

D. Martin, Belle Glade—I believe yes. The law is supposed to care, public or not public.

Edward Andrews, Belle Glade—Would be a very good idea to have no smoking in public areas.

Cissy Noland, Belle Glade—Yes. I've had people blow a cigarette right in my face. I don't smoke and never have.

Diane Lopez, Belle Glade—I don't really know. I'm a smoker myself. Don't think I could favor it. I like to smoke different places. I think people should be able to smoke anywhere as long as they're careful.

Double standard for state

After reviewing Gov. Bob Graham's supplemental budget recommendations for 1980-1981, it seems evident that one revenue standard is used in Tallahassee, while quite another is imposed by the state on local government.

County-level government this year is making do with a five percent increase in revenues over the past year. We support this approach on spending. Some county commissioners even support it, despite the complications of having to trim and cut budgets.

It's a fact that government is one of the leading causes of inflation. The more government spending can be reduced, the lower the inflation rate. Holding down government spending also helps reduce the strain on the taxpayer.

While county government has cut back on services—including road building—to stay within five percent increase cap, state government shows no intention of playing by the same ground rules.

Gov. Graham has stated that he intends to stay within a 11 percent annual increase. His recommendations for 1980-amount to "only" 9.97 percent, prof says the governor's staff that the modifications "clearly fall within the guidelines" previously committed.

The governor justifies the increase by saying that since the state is now operating under a biennial (two year) budget, it's necessary to make changes to offset inflation and implement new needs. No such leeway was given to local government.

Inflation rates above expectations have inflated nominal dollar flows, but the real sector of the economy has also performed well during this period. As a consequence state tax revenues have exceeded estimates, as have the funding needs of several programs," says the governor's proposal.

It's evident that the governor intends to spend the surplus instead of using the money to reduce taxes.

According to the governor's budget, planned expenditures for education in 1979-1980 were $2.2 billion. Expenditures in 1980-81 would have increased $114 million to $2.3 billion. The governor's recommended 1980-81 adjustment has $164 million more being added to make the revised 1980-1981 appropriation $2.5 billion.

That sounds like a hefty adjustment for inflation.

The added argument is made that funneling more funds to education moves the state closer to assuming 75 percent of the funding for public schools by 1982.

Other recommendations made under Graham's "priority state goals" include $7.8 million more for grants to low income persons to "weatherize" their homes, $12.3 million for energy research grants, $30.2 million for a governmental energy assistance program, a state employee subsidy program for transit in urban areas, and a renter relief figure out.

In the meantime, the governor is seeking the modifications, using his own rationale. Increases in state employee pay are needed to maintain the state in a "competitive posture in the labor market," increase "worker's productivity, and at the same time not add fuel to this country's spiraling inflation," the report says.

Sounds like a neat trick if you can do it, Governor. program for senior citizens.

Graham is proposing to transfer $12.6 million from the Florida Energy Trust Fund for the speed reduction program. Are government officials sure $12.6 million worth of energy will be saved by trying to increase compliance with the 55 m.p.h. speed limit?

The governor is also recommending a $20.6 million renter relief program, "to enable the renter to share in the property tax relief currently provided to homeowners and elderly homeowners."

More money is being requested for food stamps. Staffing needs to be increased since the last time manpower was addressed was in 1978 when the state had a 228,135 caseload. The caseload has since increased to 313,824 and is expected to go to 401,470 by January 1981.

"This abnormal increase in caseload has reduced the quality of Food Stamp Certifications to the extent that Florida is experiencing unacceptable levels of payment errors. In fact, unless corrective actions are taken Florida faces fiscal sanctions from the federal Department of Agriculture," says the governor's report.

Draft women? Surely you jest!

H.G. Duncan

Carter's recent announcement that he wished to reinstitute the registration of youngsters for the draft brought the predicted howls from various quarters.

The ERAers feel that this is an amendment for their already lost cause. They defy the draft unless the Equal Rights Amendment is passed. The anti-ERAers are naturally opposed to the draft of women.

The male side of the house has also set up its squawks of protests, but those noises come from only a relatively few. I like to think that the majority of American manhood still feels some degree of obligation to this country, even if the country has to draft them in order to obtain their services.

Carter knew and knows that there is no way that Congress is going to agree to the conscription of the weaker sex (said in all its factual meaning). But for him to openly state what I'm sure he feels would have appeared to be just another male chauvinist muttering.

Well, how about this business of drafting women? Should we I think not. At first, I was favorably disposed to the idea, but since Carter did not deign to seek my opinion, and since I have faith also in the patriotism of American females, I think that they would volunteer in numbers sufficient to our needs in the military for females without resort to conscription.

Our needs for females in the military. Of what is that you males, male chauvinists, say? Women have traditionally done a good job in the military in the billets they are designed to fill. The clerk, the computer operator, the communications center person. But now we have the gals pushing for wider ranges. They want to fly F-4s, drive tanks, grapple with the weapons as an ordinary infantryman and fire shot and shell against the enemies of democracy. Please hear my feeble argument against such folly.

Let us take the most visible limitation to such strenuous tasks: The physical inferiority of the female (or should I more aptly call it the lack of physical strength?). We are used to seeing our troops on parade, marching smartly in step to martial music. What we don't often see is the hard physical labor they must perform. Can you ladies lift heavy boxes containing mortar ammunition from the ground to the bed of a truck? Can you go on foot for miles with a pack loaded with literally hundreds of pounds of equipment and supplies? Indeed, I

Letter

Dear Sir:

I, Bonnie Olden, desperately tried to get the palm tree lining Bacon Point Road cut down after I was involved in an accident in which another party was badly injured after striking one of the palm trees.

If these trees would have been removed back then, or a guard rail erected, then perhaps the death of Lori Michelle Bonnell would not have occurred. I myself feel that if the president of the United States can't get the palm trees on the Garden Club should be able to give up their palm trees.

It is surely a terrible thing that had to happen in order to open the eyes of the people living within this city. I am again pleading to the city, along with many other citizens in town, to please cut down those palm trees before they take more of our loved ones away.

Sincerely,
/s/Bonnie Olden

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

There's something about horses that seems to enthrall just about everyone, even those among us who really aren't among the horsey set. That may be the reason I enjoyed it so much when I took in my first polo match the other day at Wellington.

I've known a few friends and relatives coming up who had horses but I never really got carried away with them personally. Probably the fact that since I went through my middle teens, the only horse that could be a candidate for a Budweiser commercial would have something to do with that.

After all, I do have feelings. I'm not one to offer torture to a dumb beast for no reason. Besides, Clydesdales and Percherons are the normal run-of-the-mill Dobbins at your average rental stable.

I never was exactly turned on, either, by the prospect of getting out in a crowd of people to watch a handful of horses and riders line up in a portable stable to see which horse could run around a circle the fastest.

But polo is something else again. First of all, the field looks pretty much like a football field...only there aren't as many stripes and it's almost exactly three times as large.

And they make it look fairly easy but whacking a 3 1/4 inch ball with a sprung five-foot mallet doesn't come quite as easy as falling off a log, especially when you're galloping full tilt on the back of a hairy burner.

Combine all that with the fact you're not the only one trying to hit that little ball, that there's three friends trying to bet some wood on it, along with four competitors who don't seem to care all that much whether they connect with the ball or your noggins and you start to get a handle on why the British adopted the game as a training exercise for their light cavalry.

Besides the eight horsemen on the two opposing teams, there's a couple of officials thundering around on the turf and all of a sudden, that field measuring 160 by 300 yards isn't all that huge anymore.

I went out to watch one of the runoff matches of the Rolex tournament so I found myself parking the Green Machine along the sidelines, half expecting to park her canderidden carcass alongside the likes of Rolls Royces, Maseratis and Mercedes.

That's where I got my first surprise of the day.

Instead of finding the mechanical menagerie of the Palm Beach crowd, there were the four-wheel drive pick-ups of the hound dogs and blue jeans types you expect to find in Loxahatchee or the Glades.

Well, all right, sezzi, grabbing Can and strolling down the side-line, humming in tune to something coming off the County K a 4WD type had his radio tuned to, this is my kind of crowd. This may not so bad after all.

I was beginning to get concerned about the end of the first chukker, that's period to the rest of you non-polo types, that I wasn't going to get any decent shots. Even with a 135 mm lens, those guys weren't very close when they were at mid-field and they seemed to be concentrating their action across the way.

About the time I'd decided to take a hike around to the other side of the field, the players headed straight for me though...so I decided to stick around. This would make a pretty good picture.

Well, those guys and their horses were getting closer and closer and I held down on the motor drive, knocking out exposures and feeling good when I noticed they weren't going off to either side.

I came up for air and it was like covering a football game and suddenly realizing the ball carrier in that end sweep is taking a dead aim on you and you start to get ready to take a step back or to one side.

After all, nobody wants to get clobbered by a 180-pound halfback in full stride, especially when he's being caught up with a 175-pound linebacker and a 220-pound tackle.

And these guys weren't half-backs, riding linebackers and tackles; they were riding half-ton horses and all ten of 'em were bearing down on me when one of 'em takes a swipe at the ball, slamming into the side have seen some who could, but not many. And those looked like hell on parade! The physical demands of combat are the demands to be filled by strong bodies. Women don't, as a group, possess that strength.

The horrors of war are things to be considered, but things about which we don't like to think. They are real; vividly real, however. Can the flower of American womanhood withstand horrors which crash into all your senses in grotesque and macabre fashion? Could the lady "grunt" continue the charge on an enemy position as she sees her fellow troops, male and female, falling about her? Could she continue to fly an A-6 Intruder with a corpse sitting beside her? Could she take over and fire the tank cannon while standing in the gore that once was the gunner? Could she have all these horrors indelibly engraved on her mind and then go back to being a sweet, dexterous, husband-hunting member of our society when the war was ended?

We currently have women in the military filling truly female billets and in a few "sheen" combat billets (they would not, today at least, go to combat in that billet). Although they do a creditable job, there is another facet of human nature which causes some degree of anguish to the commander who is trying to maintain a sharp, military, combat-ready posture. And that is the affairs of the heart (and the glands). In my years as a Marine I was fortunate to command eight different units; all combat with the exception of one. I had no females until my last command. It was a communications company which was combat ready. When I inherited the command it had one female officer and two female enlisted Marines. A year later, when I retired from the Marine Corps, I had over fifteen females, most of whom were radio operators. As such, they did a pretty good job. I made up my mind that I would treat them like any other Marine. They went to the field when we went. They took hikes with us. They fired the rifle every year for requalification. They performed the distasteful and mundane chores of cleaning the spaces, raking the leaves, and standing their thirty days mess duty per year. Some things, however, I could not make equitable: I could not assign them to barracks duty because they lived in another, more palatial barracks designed to cater to the whims of the female gender.

I could not assign them to duty with the number of "boats" we had, due to the fact that these boats may very well be in combat at the drop of a hat.

But, God, in his wisdom, determined that there would be an attraction between the male and female which would lead to its inevitable conclusion of marriage and the reproduction of the human race. Joining or being drafted into the military does not place a moratorium on this phenomenon.

Although one may be wearing the uniform of a military service, one still has the tendency to fall in love, and when one as the advantage of a ratio of about one to thirty, those opportunities come daily. With the love comes the concomitant cloud which elevates the young lady above even the smallest degree of job efficiency to say nothing of tying up official telephone lines with lengthy love poems and prose.

Should the lady and her lothario have defenses so weak that they succumb to the chemistry of life, she becomes physically incapacitated and must be discharged.

A few of the really gassy ones have fought that in court and remained in the military and on the payroll talking with the baby sitter seventy seven times a day on the official telephone. Can you envision an F-4 pilot giving instructions to the baby sitter over the aircraft radio as she flies to the destruction of some communist installation? I can.

With the rulings in favor of twentieth century insanity I can envision a day when a Marine reports into his new unit. He enters the battalion headquarters and sees one pregnant clerk, another clerk breast feeding her baby while trying to type with one hand, a new battalion order on the need for increased combat efficiency, and the adjutant holding hands with the male clerk. Once he gets to his battalion, maybe the platoon sergeant will proposition him.

Heaven knows we have enough trouble in the military with the female volunteer. Please do not saddle an already hog-tied military with the female who has to be drafted into the service. The possibilities for trouble boggle the imagination!

Just to set the record straight: I am not really a male chauvinist. I like to think of myself as a realist. I think that the woman should be free. I think that she should be able to do anything she wants to do and is capable of doing, just as long as she has supper on the table by six.

Jazz disco concert is Friday

BELLE GLADE-A jazz disco concert will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday at the El Ranchito Restaurant by the Glades Central Jazz Ensemble, according to director Willie Pyfrom, as part of a fundraising drive to help buy new uniforms.

"Without question," Pyfrom said, "this is one of the best high school jazz ensembles in Florida and features one of the finest jazz trombonists in the country in high schools in Roger Hester."

Pyfrom said the jazz ensemble has played in a variety of places and will play Saturday in the Gold Coast Jazz Festival in Fort Lauderdale.

He said the ensemble will play selections from Count Basie, Earth, Wind and Fire, Buddy Rich, Maynard Ferguson and Stan Kenton.

Tickets for the performance are priced at $5.

of a car parked about ten feet behind me.

I moved back but it wasn't until later that I drew the parallel that this is what it's like to have ten horsemen bearing down on you, swinging those mallets, well, then, what the heck must it have been like for a poor infantryman to stand there while 600 or 800 bore down on you and they were swinging sabres instead of mallets and they were aiming at your neck instead of a ball.

All of a sudden, the men in the Thin Red Line at Balalaika who smashed a charge of Russian cavalry with three cool volleys started standing a lot taller. Those horses look awful damn big when they're 30 yards away and coming strong.

The real kicker didn't come until a couple days later, though, when the print was coming up in the developed in the darkroom and I saw there weren't really ten horsemen taking a bead on me and my camera.

There were only three. The rest were a good 50 yards in the background.

Raiders win Panther Relays

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Central boys track team won the Panther Relays championship for the second consecutive year Friday at Fort Myers Cypress Lake High School, accumulating 89 points and winning first places in the track and field events.

All American Charles Miller won first place in both the shotput and discus; Wilford Morgan won first place in the long jump and Jessie Hester picked up hardware in the two events by participating in the first place 440 yard relay team and the first place sprint medley team.

Miller put the shot 53' 2" for his first trophy and hurled the discus 145' 8" to win his second first place victory. Greg Bain won a fifth place in the discus with a throw of 126' 1".

Morgan won a first in the long jump by leaping 22' 6".

The 440 relay team ran the distance in 44.1 seconds to take that first place. The members of the team are Arthur Monroe, Ray McDonald, Elmorris Dukes and Jessie Hester.

The sprint medley team, made up of Hester, Lloyd Messan, Theotis Paulk and Lorenzo Greenwich, won its first place by finishing in 2:07.2.

Glades Central won a second place award in the mile medley,

The two-mile relay team won third with a time of 8:36.1. The team members were Reginald Greenwich, Emanuel Thornton, and Verot with one point.

Adam Ford and Keith Seymore.

Wilford Morgan won third place in the high jump, clearing the bar at 6'4".

In the 330 yard intermediate hurdles, Eddie Lusane won third place in 42.1 seconds, followed by James McCants in fifth place with a time of 43.0 and Jeff Woodson in sixth place with a time of 43.1 seconds.

The Raiders beat out host team Cypress Lakes, which came in second with 67½ points. Other schools participating were Clewiston with 51 points, Fort Myers High with 49, Charlotte with 37, Loxahatchee with 34, Immokalee with 11, Naples with 10, Baron Collier with 10, Cape Coral with nine, Riverdale with nine, North Fort Myers with five and Bishop Verot with one point.

Lady Raiders take second

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Central girls track team finished second last week at the Cobras at Fort Pierce Central High School, winding up following only Class AAAA South Plantation, which received 84 points to the Raiders' 75.

Coach Jay Seider said the team still hasn't lost to a Class AAA team this year. He said the girls set to school records, the first when Sheila Nix bettered her old record by a foot (39' 10 3/4") and the 880 yard relay team.

Seider said Miss Nix's put was enough to win first place but the 880 team's time of 1:46.0 time, compared to the old time of 1:48.6, was only good enough for second place, with Plantation finishing in 1:45.6.

The Raiders picked up first place wins in the shotput relay, the discus relay, the long jump relay and the 440 yard relay.

In the shotput event, Sheila Nix, Brenda Burton and Dianne Bussie wound up with a total of 106' 10 3/4".

Miss Nix joined Sheila Ashley and Gloria Stewart in the discus relay for a total distance of 282' 3".

In the long jump relay, Carmen Crawford, Sheila Ashley and Carmen Crawford joined for a total distance of 47' 9 1/2" and a first place.

The Raider 440 yard relay team won first place with a time of 50.4 seconds. Team members were Barbara Bostick, Barbara Monroe, Sheila Ashley and Carmen Crawford.

The mile relay team finished third in 4:20.3. Team members were Sheila Ashley, Carl Redwood, Cynthia Harrell and Carmen Crawford.

A third place win was scored in the high jump relay when Gloria Stewart, Cynthia Harrell and Fleeta Hearst combined for a total jump of 13' 2".

The shuttle hurdles finished in fourth place when Carla Redwood, Dianne Bussie, Linda Jackson and Fleeta Hearst joined for a time of 1:45.4.

A two mile relay fourth place was won by Lestina Frazier, Brenda Sneed, Thelma Allen and Betty Washington.

In the distance medley, fourth place was won by Brenda Sneed, Gloria Stewart, Lestina Frazier and Sherry Washington.

A fifth place win was posted by Carla Redwood, Marla Redwood, Lestina Frazier and Betty Washington in the mile medley with the time of 4:45.7.

In the 330 yard hurdles, the girls scored another fifth place win when Linda Jackson, Fleeta Hearst, and Carmen Crawford took the barriers in 3:06.0.

SUPPORT THE PRINCE was the theme Monday when Pahokee Mayor Duncan Padgett (far left) and Belle Glade Mayor Ralph Kirk (far right) were presented

Mayors support Prince

Pahokee Mayor Duncan Padgett and Belle Glade Mayor Ralph Kirk expressed solidarity Monday in their support for the renovated Prince Theatre, when they were presented with complementary tickets to the Spring Fever Revue, the first production scheduled at the theater since a major facelift for the Pahokee landmark.

"I think it's going to be a wonderful thing for the Glades area," Padgett said, after receiving his ticket from Anne Johnson, a member of the Prince Theatre Committee. "I think it will provide wonderful entertainment and I hope the public will support it."

"I'm sure the Prince Theatre will be an asset to the entire Glades area," Kirk said. "It's located in Pahokee but it'll serve everyone who lives in western Palm Beach County and it deserves their support."

Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Wilkinson said the public throughout the Glades is already showing its support in the purchase of tickets. They said the tickets for Friday's performance of the Spring Fever Revue were almost sold out as of Monday and they encouraged people to be sure they purchase tickets for the Saturday performance before they're sold out as well.

The Spring Fever Revue will feature performers from the Pahokee-Canal Point area, Belle Glade-South Bay area and Clewiston.

The first show is scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday with a repeat performance to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets are available at any of a number of business in Canal Point, Pahokee, Belle Glade and Clewiston and Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Wilkinson said anyone wishing further information can reach them at 924-7022 or 924-7722.

Mental health area OK, Glades next?

BELLE GLADE-Permission to establish a Glades area mental health agency separate from the Palm Beach County organization has been granted by the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW).

The separate entity, identified as Catchment Area IV, is incorporated as the Western Palm Beach Mental Health Clinic, Inc.

Word of the HEW approval was released Wednesday by Robert Quam, director of the District 9 Mental Health Board, meeting with Glades area mental health representatives at the newly-opened Crisis Center here.

The redelineation of the catchment area means that the Glades area mental health program will no longer be subject to the Palm Beach County board and can develop its own program under separate funding in the future.

Attending Wednesday's session with Quam were Mrs. Gene R. Cross, president of the Western PBC M-H Clinic; Harvey Poole and Floyd Erickson of Canal Point, both members of the District 9 board which encompasses both the county and Glades catchment areas.

Expansion of the governing board of the Glades area is underway with the four present officers in charge of naming additional board members.

The HEW approval was stated in a letter from William D. Wright, regional HEW director in Atlanta, noting that the western county's migrant population base was used in granting the separate catchment area.

The migrant population is estimated at between 38 and 40 percent, according to Quam and Mrs. Cross.

The possibility of a future catchment area including the Glades and Glades counties was also discussed in Wright's letter.

"It would appear that Hendry and Glades Counties have much in common with Western Palm Beach County with regard to geography and population characteristics," Wright stated.

Noting that the two counties are under another district, (District 8) Wright continued, "the possibility for linking these populations as a catchment area for future mental health development would appear to be an appropriate possibility to investigate."

Quam said that letters have been sent by the District 9 office in Ft.

Myers, headquarters for the Health and Rehabilitative Services district for Glades and Hendry counties, but that no official word has been received.

"In three or four months we'll look into it again," he said.

5 million steps to Maine:

The longest journey begins with a single step and on April 1 the Jeff Cogswell family will step off on a 2,000-mile journey -- an estimated five million steps.

The Cogswells, including Jeff and Reina and their young sons, Justin and Michael, plan to hike from Georgia to Maine along the Appalachian Trail, a walk that will take them at least six months.

Mrs. Cogswell is the former Reina Alvarez of Belle Glade. The Cogswells have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Alvarez, at 578 S.E. 5th St. before taking off on their long jaunt through the mountains from Springer Mountain in Georgia to Mt. Katahdin in Maine.

The hike is described by the young couple -- Jeff is 33 and Reina, 22 -- as the maiden voyage of their new lifestyle as "professional adventurers."

Until a few months ago the Cogswells say they were leading the typical American lifestyle: bored, nervous and unhappy, harnessed with car payments, a mortgage and a marine diesel motor repair business that was lucrative but a headache.

"Our kids didn't know anything but television, plastic and Big Macs," they say.

Selling their home and business in Miami, the Cogswells bought ten acres of land in the North Georgia mountains as a homestead and spent the rest of their money on camping gear and professional camera equipment.

"Then we announced to our friends and the world that we were now professional adventurers." The first project together would be "Five Million Steps to Maine."

The couple expects to accumulate enough experiences and photographs to provide materials for magazine articles, slide shows and a book, with the proceeds from these financing the next adventure.

However, the Cogswells' first adventure was not one of their itinerary.

Before quitting the field of marine mechanics, Jeff Cogswell had contracted to pick up a yacht at San Jose, Guatemala, which a client had purchased. Reina signed on as "crew."

Arriving in Guatemala, the Cogswells found that the yacht had been ## a family in search of adventure

longed to Anastasio Samosa, the deposed Nicaraguan president.

For a month the Cogswells waited in San Jose for the red tape to be cut so they could take delivery. In the end, they returned empty handed -- the yacht's title remaining encumbered by "a lien."

The adventurous life is not for the weak for Jeff Cogswell. In 1973 he rode a bicycle solo across the country from New York City to the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco for a Heart Fund promotion, "Pedaling Healthy Hearts," which raised $20,000 for the cause, he relates.

In 1976 he participated in "The Great American Flatboat Expedition," a venture that included building a flatboat of the early 1800's and floating it down the Missouri-Mississippi River from Three Forks, Mont., to New Orleans -- a distance of 3600 miles which took more than seven months.

His most hazardous enterprise, though, was accompanying the late Capt. Bob Griffith in a dugout canoe, the Nuku Hivas, on a sail across the Pacific without food, water or modern navigational aids.

Before the voyage ended, the canoe was broken up by 30-foot waves and the crew spent five and half hours in the water before being picked up by the follow boat.

Thefeat was later repeated, Cogswell says, by a National Geographic team, and publicized as "The Voyage of the Hoku-lea."

The Cogswells have spent the last month preparing for their long walk, sun-drying fruit, beef, ham and turkey; mixing granola and preparing sealed meals of dehydrated foods.

Jeff, however, will attempt to survive during the six-month walk on whatever wild edible foods he can forage along the trail.

"As long as there's a pine tree next to me I won't starve," says Jeff, who recalls that during 28 days of the Nuku Hiva voyage that subsisted on what fish they could catch and water sucked from barnacles.

Cogswell has been aided in learning what the foods of the forest are by Edeline Woods, president of the Wild Foods organization and a student of the late Ewell Gibbons.

"Whether I will be successful remains to be seen," Jeff admits. "My chances are good, though, since I have an excellent teacher and a 40-pound headstart hanging under my belt."

The Cogswells will backpack their gear, toting lightweight tents and a change of clothing. Jeff will carry 40 pounds, of which 15 pounds is camera equipment. Reina's 25-pound pack will contain food and the boys' pack will weigh slightly more than seven pounds.

The Cogswell boys are Justin, aged nine and Michael, six. For Michael, the trip will more nearly measure ten million steps and is an opportunity to set a record for being the youngest person in history to hike the entire 2074.5 miles of the Appalachian Trail, according to Cogswell.

After their initial adventure, what will the Cogswells do for an encore?

They're awaiting permission for the Chinese government for an expedition in 1982 that is to begin by raft at the source of the Yangtze River in Tibet and follow it to the mouth at Shanghai.

From there on, adventure will be wherever they find it.

the Appalachian Trail ending in October at Mt. Katahdin, Maine.

of the Glades Central High School French and Drama Club Linda Ward, left, and Lolita Culler.

Again this year the excitement builds as plans are being made for the annual Black Gold Jubilee celebration. There will be a parade, tournaments, barbecue and an Almost-Anything-Goest contest that should be a barrel of laughs.

Last year my family tried to attend as many events as possible. It isn't always easy to make it to everything with the problem of living so far out of town, but we managed to make the talent show on Friday night and we made a full day of it on Saturday.

The talent show in itself was well worth the effort to drive in. The Dixie Hummingbirds were a delight to everyone if the response could be gauged by the number of entries they were asked to do.

On Saturday, the raft races were a very enjoyable event with the Kiwanis Club's efforts being worth many a laugh.

So again this year we plan to have an enjoyable time celebrating the Black Gold Jubilee.

We hope the community will participate.

The fog was so thick Wednesday morning driving to work that I was beginning to wonder if I was a part of the movie "The Fog." I understand that the quality of the movie does not live up to the publicity the movie received, but the fog Wednesday morning was a real life horror.

For the life of me, I can't understand those folks who are barreling down the highway at 55 m.p.h. in the thick of a fog with (horror of horrors!) no lights on! It is not only dangerous for them but also for all the rest of us who happen to be on the road at the same time.

Did you know that we live in the wrong town, wrong country and wrong state? Well, when you consider the wages that some people are making in other states, you may even decide you are at the wrong job.

In the category of "things that make your day," consider the fact that in one state short distance truck drivers are guaranteed a minimum salary of $25,000 per year.

If that doesn't faze you, think on the fact that forklift operators in the economically depressed state of West Virginia -- Charleston, to be specific -- are making $10.50 an hour in the Kroger warehouses.

Not sick yet? Here's the clincher. In the windy city of Chicago, Jewel Tea grocery checkers are making $12 an hour. Can you imagine that?

I hope all the U-Save and Winn Dixie check-out girls didn't just walk off the job.

Black Gold Jubilee event's schedule approved

BELLE GLADE—A final schedule of events for the Second Annual Black Gold Jubilee on April 18-20 was adopted during a meeting Friday of the Jubilee committee.

The first of the official Black Gold events is the softball tournament, which will begin Friday, April 11 and run through Sunday, April 13. The tournament is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Ighe Glades and will take place at Lakeshore Park and Jaycees Field. Steve Weeks reported there are now eight mens and six womens teams registered. A total of 15 mens teams and ten womens teams are being sought. Registration fee is $75 per team.

A tennis tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, April 12-13, at Lyons Park. Registration is $5 per person, per event.

The golf tournament will be held Sunday, April 13 at the Belle Glade Golf Course, beginning with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. Pro John Wright said he is now taking entries. Entry fees are $15 per person and will include a Black Gold T-shirt.

Application blanks for the softball and tennis tournaments are available at city hall. Entry forms for the golf tournament are available at the pro shop.

On Friday, April 18, the Suncoast Conference West track meet, which has been included in Black Gold activities, begins at 3 p.m., with the final competitions beginning at 6 p.m. A total of 16 girls and boys teams will represent eight schools in the meet. The meet was taken into the Black Gold festivities when it was found the meet and Almost Anything Goes were both scheduled for the same date.

Jubilee activities move into high gear Saturday, April 19 with early-risers invited to watch a Marathon Minus One Half. Men and women will be competing in separate divisions in a 13.5 mile run beginning at McDonald Park, south on SR 80 and SR 527A and return. Entry fees will be $5 and include a Black Gold T-shirt.

Other activities will begin in McDonald Park at 9 a.m., starting with the Arts and Crafts Show sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Belle Glade. The Arts and Crafts Show, as well as other activities slated to begin later in the day, will last until 5 p.m.

The Black Gold Parade will step off at 10:30 a.m. Saturday from Glades Central High School, moving east on North Canal Street, south on Main and west on Southwest Avenue E to Glades Plaza, where it will disband.

For the first time in three years, four local bands will provide music for the parade, with Glades Central's Maroon Marching Band being joined by Glades Day School, Paehokee High School and East Lake Middle School bands.

Following the parade, the center of attention will move back to McDonald Park for the Arts and Crafts Show, live entertainment, awards presentations, international food booths, a trash bash for teenagers, children's movies and a puppet show for the kids.

The food booths, which will actually be set up on a series of tables, will feature Syrian sandwiches (camel riders), hamburgers and Cokes, a salad bar, souf food, chili and tea and tacos. Applications are still being accepted by Becky Wedgworth.

Other booths will include child painting, a pewter booth, fashion jewelry, a country store, Seminole Indian crafts, wooden toys, porcelain dolls, ceramics, needlework, oil paintings, quilting, afghans, a cake walk and a booth where children will have clown's faces painted on them.

At 6 p.m., the action moves to Glades Central High School football field for the Almost Anything Goes competition between six adult teams and three teenage teams, representing the local high schools. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12.

City Recreational Coordinator Jane Williams said everything is set up for the games and she's looking for 20 workers, over the age of 18, to help her with setting up the Almost Anything Goes competition.

Foreign agents, however, don't even need the Freedom of Information Act to help them gather information. McKinney said, "They can go into any library and get most of the information they want."

He said the Bureau assigns a certain number of agents to keep tabs on the 60,000 Soviets who visit the United States annually and those agents are locked in on those assignments, even if there is an increase in white collar or organized crime.

When one Rotarian asked what kind of organized crime activity is prevalent in Palm Beach, Hendry and Glades Counties, the area McKinney is responsible for, he responded, "loan sharking, drugs and pornography...you name it."

The adult dance will take place from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the Belle Glade Elks Club. Tickets, priced at $15 a couple, are now on sale for the BYOB affair.

On Sunday, the activities move to the Belle Glade Marina. The Chamber of Commerce-sponsored barbecue will last from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m., with barbecue chicken and all the trimmings going for $3.50 a plate. Chamber President Rupert Mock, Jr., said the Chamber has already ordered 750 chickens, anticipating 1,500 half-chicken plates.

The raft race, one of the most popular events put on last year and the previous year in the 50th Anniversary Celebration, will get underway at 3 p.m. also, with the course being laid out in the river canal adjacent to the pavilion.

A horseshoe throwing contest and a pie eating contest will begin at 4 p.m. at the pavilion and a hula hoop contest will begin at 4:30 p.m.

At 5 p.m. a water ski show will be put on under the direction of Brett McCormick and is expected to last an hour.

Between 6 and 8 p.m., tentatively, a Country and Western band will provide entertainment, leading into the fireworks, which will end the Jubilee.

TILLIE THE TELLER will be introduced to Glades residents all day, every day next week at Florida First National Bank at Belle Glade by the four Tillie the Teller hostesses. Showing bank patrons how to use the 24-hour service recently installed will be, from left, Sandy Vaughn, Jo Powell, Michelle Willis and Linda Harris. They'll be on hand from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

1980 Rice Program announced

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has announced no set-aside program will be implemented for 1980 crop rice and that the 1980 program, similar to the 1979 program, will have no diversion payments. Bergland also announced a national rice acreage allotment of 1.8 million acres, the amount established by law.

Producers will be eligible for deficiency payments on allotment production after Dec. 31, should the target price for 1980 crop rice exceed the higher of (a) the national average market price received by farmers during the first five months of the 1980 marketing year, or (b) 1980 national average loan rate for rice.

The 1.8 million-acre national allotment is apportioned to producers on the basis of allotments established for the 1975 estimates become available.

Current estimates are for a target price of between $9.35 and $9.65 per hundredweight and a loan and purchase rate of from $7.05 to $7.25 per hundredweight. The 1979 crop target price and loan and purchase rate are $9.05 and $6.79 per hundredweight, respectively.

Producers will be eligible for deficiency payments on allotment production after Dec. 31, should the target price for 1980 crop rice exceed the higher of (a) the national average market price received by farmers during the first five months of the 1980 marketing year, or (b) 1980 national average loan rate for rice.

The 1.8 million-acre national allotment is apportioned to producers on the basis of allotments established for the 1975 rice crop. Only rice grown on allotment acres is eligible for loans and target price protection.

Rice allotments for individual farms are used to determine loan eligibility and to compute any deficiency payments due.

The law established a limit of $50,000 a person to receive for a combination of the rice, wheat, feed grains and upland cotton programs. This limitation does not apply to loans or purchases.

The reserve and state acreage allotment for Florida is 9.5 and 960.8, respectively.

Taking it From the Top

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

The time had come for Jesus to make His entrance into Jerusalem, the city of David. He had covered the country from the Sea of Galilee to the wilderness of the Jordan River.

Jesus had healed the sick, the lame and the demon possessed. He had fed five thousand, spiritually and physically and had debated with lawyers, scribes, Pharisees and everyday people.

Five days before the Passover, Jesus had His disciples secure a donkey that had never been ridden before. So, on a donkey, the Carpenter of Nazareth, led by His disciples, began the final journey into Jerusalem from Bethpage.

Christ attracted a crowd, was crowned by popularity King of Jerusalem and stirred up a controversy.

The crowd began with the disciples. These loyal men came to Jerusalem to die if need be. The had seen Jesus received by crowds. They had also seen the people go away when their Master spoke of hard-to-believe things.

The disciples had left their homes and security to follow Jesus. They knew that the High Priests were on the lookout for Him and, of course, their followers.

The believers included such as Martha, Mary, Lazarus, John Mark and perhaps Nicodemus. These were the people who opened their homes to Jesus and His disciples when He traveled to the Holy City.

Their number may have been as many as 120. They were not of the inner circle but nonetheless loyal. Many of these were community leaders which caused the High Priests to go slow about arresting the Galilean.

Certainly there were many curious who were attracted when any parade spectacle took place. They followed Jesus to see the latest miracle.

There were the hungry, the beggars and the like. They had heard of Jesus feeding the 5,000 with so much food that 12 baskets were taken up afterward.

In addition, there were the spies of the Sanhedrin and police of the High Priests. It was their job to report on the actions of Jesus.

The crown that awaited Jesus was not the one He wanted. The people wanted Jesus to be King of the Jews. They wanted a king to throw off the occupation of the Romans. They were looking for one who would bring back the glory of David.

The people wanted an instant solution to their problems. They wanted their burdens of taxes lifted. They were childlike, thinking of the moment only. They would get restless and unhappy before the week was over.

The procession halted at the Temple and there Jesus with the crowd at His back added the final straw to the pile that broke the patience of the High Priests. Jesus entered the Temple where the selling of animals took place and money was being changed. He drove out the sellers and money-changers from the Temple.

Jesus struck at the income of the religious leaders. He was threatening their profits. The High Priests were determined to kill the newly-crowned king of Jerusalem.

The scene was set for the crucifixion.

Easter morn service set

Local ministers will be participating in the service and everyone is invited to attend the celebration.

Swine fever plan asked

GAINESVILLE--A five-point plan to prevent the devastation of Florida's pork industry by African swine fever has been proposed to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland by the 86,000-member Florida Farm Bureau Federation (FFBF).

"African swine fever can really wipe out our herds. Our concern is in how this disease, which can be found just 90 miles off our coast, can be kept out of Florida," said Walter J. Kautz, president of FFBF.

In a letter to Bergland, Kautz called for stricter surveillance and decontamination of people coming into Florida's ports and air terminals. He also requested stepped-up inspection of food products being brought into the U.S. and enforcement of requirements of burning of all garbage and food wastes at ports and air terminals.

Inspection personnel and tourists must be made aware of the dangers to the swine industry and the economy of the event that African swine fever enters the country, Kautz said.

"Quite simply, we are requesting the USDA do everything possible to keep the disease out of the United States," he said. It is vitally important that Florida's pork producers work with the USDA in developing and implementing a mobilization plan in the event the African swine fever is introduced into the U.S.," Kautz added.

African swine fever is a virus which research has shown can survive several weeks. "In its acute form, the disease resembles hog cholera, which is accompanied by a high fever from which the pigs die rapidly. The less virulent form is difficult to distinguish from other swine disease and the survivors become a 'Typhoid Mary' carrier," Dr. George W. Meyerholz, extension veterinarian for the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, said.

The disease, which cannot be contracted by humans, can be transmitted by direct human contact with infected hogs and contaminated pork products. Meyerholz said. No vaccine is available for treatment or prevention of African swine fever, he added.

"Once an outbreak is defined, the exposed herds must be destroyed," Meyerholz said.

Area church news

CROWN OF THORNS

Barbed wire on battlefield.
Civilization tangled in blood, suffering, death.
Christ sees it from Heaven
And remembers
The crown of thorns!
A Roman soldier's idea of a joke—
Jesus wore it dying for our sins, such as Barbed wire on battlefield.

Something to go to Church about:
It was God's Son they crowned with barbed wire.
Thorns, that is:
Crowned Him Prince of Peace—
Someone to pray to, believe in, live for
In a world eager for happiness and hope,
Famished for love and depravity at last His Crown of thorns on battlefield.

IT'S A FACT!

A hearing impairment may be present at birth or it can occur at any age through accident or illness. Many older persons suffer some degree of hearing loss.

The first public school for the hearing impaired in the U.S. was founded in 1817 in Hartford, Conn. It is now called the American School for the Deaf.

In the past, millions of hearing-impaired Americans could see, but not hear.

Elegance is the word for the eighties-and forties. In these inflationary times, you don't have to do without. Add a touch of drama to your budget by adding a piece of furniture.

The feeling of graciousness and spaciousness of these fine pieces can be enhanced with the aid of a little modern technology and traditional craftsmanship in such a way that a minimum of room is required. Pecan veneers are specially distressed, and pecan sides are finished to a lighter, fruitwood-like called Cameo. A subtle tone-on-tone striping adds to the traditional style.

The splendor of Italy and the importance of the Renaissance pieces based on historic designs provide an element of authenticity in this furniture collection from DOCUMENTARY, a new company that can put together in many pretty ways.
